

Northeastern Technical College's Division of Continuing Education Presents:

CNA Survival Day Camp

October 30, 2009

Two Sessions

8:45 am – 12:00 pm or

12:45 – 4:00pm

McLeod Family Medicine Center

Classrooms A & B

Florence, South Carolina

Cost: $40.00

This 1/2 day program is designed to equip the Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) with the knowledge and assessment "Survival" skills to "pick up" on the sometimes subtle cues to potential status changes that can be present in the patient during routine delivery of daily care. Care measures and the CNA's role in communicating changes in patient status will be discussed as well as the modes and prevention of the transmission of commonly encountered environmental organisms in the work environment. The course will be available in both morning and afternoon sessions for ease of attendance. 3.0 AHEC clock hours will be available for participants completing 90% of the course.
