This class offers participants an introduction to social networking with a particular focus on interaction and communication via Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube. Individuals will learn skills ranging from establishing accounts to interacting with others using multiple forms of social media. The course is designed especially for beginners and amateurs who want to enter the work of social media.

NETC instructor Mike Jefferies will teach this class. He has used social media since 2006 for personal networking and classroom instruction and currently manages the college's Facebook presence.
